The MARYLAND GAZETTE.

XIXth Year.] THURSDAY, December 29, 1763. [No. 973.]

and History of the Situation of AFFAIRS in [illegible] of the Year [illegible]

THE [illegible] of a revolution in Russia, [illegible] current last month, has lost credit during the course of this. The revolutions that have lately happened in that country have, indeed, been sudden, but accomplished without much bloodshed; but that is not always to be expected. The military power is now in the hands of those raised her Imperial Majesty to the government, and ich posts and employments depend upon the continuance reign; it is not probable, therefore, that they will ain quiet spectators of a scene that must at once [illegible] Regal [illegible] of her authority, and themselves of rank and fortunes. Dangers that are more imminent to threaten Prussia; the Turks, on one hand, threaten rruption to recover their conquered provinces, and the [illegible], a war on the [illegible], for the preservation of their independency.

The fair appearance of peace which the late treaties pred to our view, begins already to be clouded. The oppo interests of the powers in alliance, and the [illegible] ositions of the contracting parties, afford but a weak dation for a lasting and cordial friendship. We may ure to foretell that the houses of Brandenburgh and ria will never be long friends while the scale of power ains equally pois'd between them. Mutual convenience y has given a check to that profusion of expence and ghter by which the subjects of both were brought to the k of ruin; but the same jealousy, the same animosity desire of revenge possess the two sovereigns, as were discernable in them at the beginning of the late war; and as can boast of any decisive advantage over the other, combatants eager to overcome, who only rest till they ver breath, they will probably soon find an opportunity of renewing their attacks with collected vigour.

hat this is more than conjecture, the conduct of the sovereigns seems to render apparent. The Empress [illegible] is [illegible] in every quarter of her dominions; strengthening herself with new and powerful alliances, preparing, with all possible diligence, to make herself dable to her enemies. The league that is forming the three great Catholic powers, in which the [illegible] is to be included, is an alarming [illegible] which the tant States cannot see without concern. The policy of nd ever since the memorable reign of the great Elizabeth been invariably directed to divert this alliance. The po of the present times [illegible] such distant [illegible] are looked upon [illegible]; treaties of peace are considered only as truces from , and the situation of England and her navy are boldly [illegible] her last and only security; the old and firm [illegible] to be no alienation [illegible] either party; and while the Catholics are cementing friendships with all possible wisdom and precaution, otestants discover an indifference for each other's in; all friendship between them is languishing away; every generous principle of universal patriotism is con[illegible] daily more and more [illegible] and selfish derations. A moment's attention to the little affected Dutch, Danes, Swedes, Prussians, and English, not to the lesser states of Hanover and Hesse, and many , bear to each other, will justify this short remark.

Prussian majesty, on his part, taking the advantage he Times, in enlisting men, and recruiting his army a, his own dominions being already too much exhausted he levies which the exigencies of the war made necessary g the continuance of it. These recruits he takes inble pains to instruct in the new discipline, of which he d to be both the author and the finisher. Under his eye he has drawn a considerable army together, the of which are all ordered to repair to their respective , so that in a moment he is in readiness to take the whenever the conduct of his neighbours may give oc for war. The regency of Hanover has discovered some [illegible] at these seemingly unnecessary armaments, have come to a resolution of keeping a strong regular in pay, which, added to the militia in constant [illegible], makes no inconsiderable force; notwithstanding h, if the public prints may be believed, the magazines y the English at Embden have been seized by his Prussian y's orders, to make good, as it is pretended, the s of his subjects, on the British commissaries; the gold ilver, coin'd and in bars, deposited by his subjects at [illegible] before the late bankruptcies there were declared, been reclaimed by his majesty's ministers, under pain of [illegible]; and a fund is demanded from the same [illegible] to make good deficiencies. Thus his Majesty's spirited [illegible] is discernable on all occasions. He permits his sub to do no injury to their peaceable neighbours, and he ally strict in procuring them justice whenever they are ly dealt with by others.

e houses of Brandenburgh and Austria are not the only who seem to be preparing for War: The French and iards are more diligent than ever in refitting their navy, ugmenting their shipping. To the numbers of artif mployed in their docks and sea-ports, and already ta notice of in our former Gazettes, thousands more have dded, and are adding daily, as they in course return captivity abroad; neither is the court of London wholly ntive to the measures conducive to the safety of her [illegible]; the ministry are silently equipping a respectable navy, putting some of her best ships into commission, ap[illegible] flag officers, speaking admirals, and bringing ships of [illegible] together. The [illegible] with which both the French and Spaniards to relinquish their acquisitions, the contempt and insolence with which they reproach their conquered inhabitants, the studied slights given to the requisitions of [illegible] subjects, their [illegible] during the war; and above all, the treacherous spirit which they have infused into the native savages of America, cannot but cause a jealousy in the British nation, that the peace will be no longer binding than the enemy is in a condition of making an advantage by the breach of it.

The late war took its rise from the violences committed on our back settlers in America. These outrages were never carried to so great a height as at present; the instances of which are already recorded.

The affairs of Italy are now become an object of attention among the Catholic powers, who are cementing their new alliances by regulations for their mutual convenience and advantage. To the provisions made for the Arch-duke Leopold, is to be added, the foreign prints assure us, the island of Corsica, with a view to which, a conference has been held with the Chief of the malecontents, who has already offered conditions of submission, which cannot well be refused by a new sovereign. These people, by their struggle for liberty, have discovered a fortitude of mind that would do honour to any nation fond of military glory, and rather than submit to the yoke of their late oppressors, are ready to put themselves under the dominion of any power capable of affording them protection. An exchange for Minorca would have been a desirable project for England, and the brave Corsicans would then have received as their reward, the liberty they so well deserve. They demand a regular constitution, a free [illegible] of no Corsicans, an exemption from taxes for 12 years, and to be declared natural subjects throughout the dominions of the prince who is to be their king.

The differences between the Dutch and English East-India companies, are far from being accommodated; it has hitherto been the custom of England to give up the point to the Dutch in all contests about trade. But the treachery of their governors in the late disputed affair about Bengal has been so clearly proved, that circumstances will not now admit of so mean a prostitution of the national Honour. It is therefore hoped, that the States, for their own Credit, will renounce the Conduct of their Governors, and punish their presumption agreeable to the law of nations.

The Emperor of Morocco has gained a signal victory over the Siles, a barbarous but numerous and powerful nation, inhabiting the hilly country beyond Mequinez. The engagement lasted two days, and the Emperor lost 7000 men, tho' at length he came off triumphant, and took 8000 of the enemy prisoners, all of which he has bound in chains, and ordered into divers places of confinement. The revolters are intirely subdued.

LONDON, October 6.

Extract of a Letter from an Officer on board the Princess Louisa, Admiral Tyrrell, dated off Plymouth, September 24, 1763.

"Several Trials of Mr. Irwin's Marine Chair have been already made on board our Ship. It enabled us to take the Observations of the celestial Phænomena full as steadily as if the Observer had been on Land. There are two Marine Chairs on board, differing somewhat in Construction, but contrived on the same Principle; in these the Gentlemen appointed by the Government to try this Invention take corresponding Observations, which answer to the nicest Degree of Exactness. We have also several other curious new-invented mathematical Instruments to make Trials of, all which cause us to pass our Time very agreeably; and were you here, you would imagine the whole Observatory at Greenwich had been transported into our Ship."

The London Merchant, Peck, and the Nottingham, Liege, both from Jamaica, arrived on Wednesday at Dover; the London Merchant had, in a Storm off the Western Islands, on the 28th and 29th of August, five Men washed overboard, four of whom were carried on board again by the Waves, and one of them is since dead; the fifth Man was drowned. The same Time five Men were washed overboard out of the Lion, Irwin, which is arrived in the Downs from Jamaica, and all drowned. She also lost one of her Masts, and was otherwise damaged.

Letters from France say, that most of the British Artificers, who were some Time since employed in the different Parts of that Kingdom, have been discharged on Account of some Irregularities.

Since the 1st of March last upwards of Forty Sail of Men of War have been put into Commission, besides Cutters; which, upon an Average, retains in full Pay near Ten Thousand Men, and others are daily fitting out in all our Ports.

Letters from Devonshire bring Advice, that the new Duty on Cyder will not defray a Fifth Part of the extraordinary Expences attending the Surveying that Branch of the Excise.

The Academy of Sciences and Belles Lettres at Lyons propose for the Prize of Arts, founded by Mr. Christian, the following Subject: "To find out the Means of hardening "Leather, and tempering it in such a Manner as to render "it impenetrable to Musket Balls, and the keenest edged "Swords."

Newcastle, Oct. 8. Sunday Morning, about 2 o'Clock, we had a violent Storm of Wind and Rain at S. E. which continued till Monday Morning, when it shifted to the N. E. and blew hard till 10 in the Forenoon; in this Storm the Anne, Twisel, and the Fame, Caxon, both from London, with Goods for this Port, were drove ashore, the former on the Herd Sand, near Tynemouth-Bar, but was happily got off without Damage; the latter on the Rocks near Cullercoats; her Cargo was got out.

The following Ships are said to be lost, or on Shore between Tynemouth-Bar and Holy-Island; the Nightingale, Bowmick, of Whitby, and the Prince George, Bond, of this Port, both light; The Dolphin, Cockburn, nine Men lost, and the Liberty, Hedley, both of this Port, the Nicholas, Dowe, of Sunderland, the Father's Good-Will, Buck, of Whitby, nine Men lost, all Coal-laden; Two other light Ships foundered, Names unknown, and three small Ships on Shore at Coquet Island, Names also unknown. And to the Southward, the Providence, Masters, of Yarmouth; Dorothy and Hannah, Jackson, and the ——, Lilly, both of this Port; Freedom, ——, of Whitby; Good Intent, Watson, with nine others, Names unknown, all light, and on Shore near Hartlepool; also five others on the Sands, to the Southward of Hartlepool, Names unknown. The Chevalier, of this Port, and the Friendship, of Yarmouth, both light, cut away their Masts, rode it out, and are got in. The Stephen and Mary, Stockdale, of Lynn, light, lost, and the Charming Betty, Hinchley, ashore, both to the Southward. The Richard, Conway, of Shields, lost in Robin Hood's Bay, and ——, Barton, of Lynn, ashore. The Prosperous Mary, Parkinson, from this Port for Hull, is lost.

PHILADELPHIA, December 15.

The following Clause is taken from an Act of Assembly passed in New-Jersey at the last Session, viz. "Whereas "from the late frequent Instances of Highway and other "Robberies in the neighbouring Governments, and some "Attempts in this, It is high Time that some Measures "are fallen upon for the more speedy Detection of such "Villainies, Be it Enacted by the Authority aforesaid, That "it shall and may be lawful for the Treasurers of this Colony, or either of them, to pay to His Excellency the Governor, or his Order, or to the Commander in Chief for "the Time being, or his Order, such Sum or Sums of Money "as he shall think necessary to offer as a Reward for apprehending and securing any Person guilty of robbing on the "Highway, or of Burglary. Provided always, That not "above Fifty Pounds shall be paid for a Robbery on the "Highway or Burglary, nor above One Hundred Pounds for "such Robbery or Burglary, where dangerous Wounds or "Murder is committed."

On Monday last Dennis Kilfoye, the Coachman of His Excellency Governor FRANKLIN, who was sentenced to be hanged at Burlington for a Rape committed on a Girl about 15 Years of Age, was reprieved under the Gallows, upon the Recommendation of the Honourable the Chief Justice, and sundry of the principal Inhabitants of that City, who were of Opinion that some Circumstances appeared to be in his Favour.

Extract of a Letter from Winchester, in Virginia, Nov. 26.

"It was supposed that the Convoy returned to Bedford, or they must have perished, as such suffered much in the Mountains, from the deep Snow.—Major Wilson, with 90 Volunteers, has marched to reinforce the [illegible] at Bedford, and I am sorry to acquaint you, that the Roads are again much infested by the Savages."

We have since heard that the above mentioned Convoy had a second Time set off for Pittsburgh, having being reinforced with 150 Men, besides the Volunteers under Major Wilson.

ANNAPOLIS, December 29.

We are informed by a Lad just come up from Norfolk, That he sail'd into that Place with the Tobacco Ship, mentioned a Fortnight ago, which sprung a Leak: He says, that about 30 or 40 Leagues without the Capes, they found 6 or 7 Feet Water in the Hold, which occasion'd her Return. He never ask'd the Name of the Master or Ship, but says she Loaded in Wye River, and one of the Sailors told him he believ'd she would be condemn'd.

Tuesday last, being ST. JOHN'S, was observ'd here by the Brethren of the Ancient and Honourable Society of FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS, with great Solemnity and Decorum.

We are desired by one of our Correspondents to Publish the following:

"Letters from St. Christophers mention, that "during a Malignant Fever, which raged there "last Summer, and which was brought from "Guadaloupe, Mrs. Payne, a Lady of that Island, "had Seventy-four Negroes seized with that "Distemper, to whom she gave Dr. James's "Fever Powders, and Seventy-three of them re"covered; but this Lady being afterwards seized "with the same Disorder, the People who at"tended her opposed her trying the same Medi"cine, with which she had Cured so many, and "she Died in a very few Days, without being "permitted to take it."

ALL Persons Indebted to the Estate of the late Kensey Johns, Esq; are desired to pay their Balances to Robert Norris, who will attend every Wednesday and Saturday at Pig-Point for that Purpose. And all Persons having any Claims or open Accounts with the aforesaid Estate, are desired to bring them in to the said Robert Norris, to be adjusted and paid; who is appointed and authorized by the Subscriber, who has Administered on the said Kensey Johns's Estate.
